Stamp Duty Land Tax (SDLT)

SDLT Residential Tax Rates effective from 31 March 2025

Purchase Price Band	First Property	+5% Additional Property Rate or By a Company	+2% Non-Resident Surcharge	+5% Additional Property Rate +2% Non-Resident Surcharge
Up to £125,000*	0%	5%	2%	7%
Above £125,000 and up to £250,000	2%	7%	4%	9%
Above £250,000 and up to £925,000	5%	10%	7%	12%
Above £925,000 and up to £1,500,000	10%	15%	12%	17%
Above £1,500,000	12%	17%	14%	19%

Only applies to purchases over £40,000. For purchases at £40,000 or under no SDLT is payable, even if the residential property is not a replacement of a main home or not the only residential property owned.*

As noted in the table, there is a 5% SDLT surcharge on purchases of additional residential properties (above £40,000), such as buy to let (investment) properties and second homes. From 1 April 2021, there is a 2% SDLT surcharge applied to non-UK residents purchasing residential property in England and Northern Ireland, this applies to non-UK resident individuals, Trusts and companies (including UK companies controlled by non-UK residents). Both these surcharges are discussed in more detail overleaf.

Example: The additional SDLT due on the purchase of a buy-to-let property (being a second residential property for the purchaser) for £350,000 completing after 31 March 2025, in comparison to the purchase of a residential property (with no other residential property owned) for the same price would be £17,500; the overall additional SDLT due with the additional 2% surcharge would be £24,500, calculated as follows:

Purchase Price	First Property	SDLT Due	+5% Additional Property Rate or By a Company	SDLT Due	+2% Non-Resident Surcharge	SDLT Due	+5% Additional Property Rate & +2% Non-Resident Surcharge	SDLT Due
First £125,000	0%	0	5%	£6,250	2%	£2,500	7%	£8,750
Next £125,000	2%	£2,500	7%	£8,750	4%	£5,000	9%	£11,250
Final £100,000	5%	£5,000	10%	£10,000	7%	£7,000	12%	£12,000
Total		£7,500		£25,000		£14,500		£32,000

As mentioned above, there is a 5% SDLT surcharge on purchases of additional residential properties (above £40,000), such as buy to let (investment) properties and second homes. The higher rates do not apply to purchases of caravans, mobile homes or houseboats. The 5% surcharge applies unless the residential property that an individual purchaser acquires in the UK is their only worldwide residential property that they (or their spouse) personally own at the point of acquisition, or it replaces their main residence.

If a purchaser acquires a new property as their main residence and then sells their main residence within three years after the purchase of the new one, they can claim for a refund of the higher SDLT rate paid.

The 5% surcharge will always apply to a residential property purchased by a company and frequently trusts. Companies are also potentially caught by the 17% flat rate SDLT charge for certain acquisitions (see below ATED). If the 17% rate applies, no other surcharges are levied.

There is a further 2% SDLT surcharge applied to non-UK residents purchasing residential property in England and Northern Ireland, this applies to non-UK resident individuals, Trusts and companies (including UK companies controlled by non-UK residents).

A first-time buyer (a buyer who has never owned a residential property anywhere in the world) purchasing a residence for their own use (for under £500,000) pay slightly reduced rates. There is no SDLT for purchases under £300,000 and first time buyers paying between £300,000 and £500,000 will pay SDLT at 5% on the amount of the purchase price in excess of £300,000.

To determine whether an individual is UK resident or non-UK resident for the purposes of the 2% SDLT surcharge, the Statutory Residence Test (SRT) is ignored, and the specific rules set out in the SDLT legislation are followed.

Under the specific rules, an individual will be non-UK resident if they spend less than 183 days in the UK in the 12 months prior to the property purchase.

A refund of the 2% SDLT surcharge can be claimed within 2 years following the date of completion if the individual becomes UK resident (according to the SDLT rules) within 12 months of the purchase.

The residency surcharge test provides that an individual is UK resident if that individual is present in the UK for at least 183 days during any continuous period of 365 days that:

- Begins with the day 364 days before the completion date of the chargeable transaction: and
- Ends with the day 365 days after the effective date of the chargeable transaction.

For married couples and civil partners living together at the date of completion purchasing property jointly, they will both be treated as UK resident even if only one of them satisfies the UK residency rules set out above.

With regards to corporate purchasers, the normal tax residency rules apply to determine the residence of a corporate purchaser.

A company is non-UK resident for the purpose of the 2% surcharge where:

- The company is not UK resident for the purpose of the Corporation Tax Acts at the date of completion. i.e. it is neither incorporated in the UK nor managed and controlled in the UK;
- The company is a UK resident company controlled by 5 or fewer participators who do not individually satisfy the UK residency test for individuals as set out above.

In practice this means looking through the company to determine the position of the shareholders and the 2% surcharge cannot simply be avoided by using a UK company to acquire the property. Whilst these rates may increase up-front acquisition costs for non-UK resident purchasers and purchasers of second homes, purchasers can claim the increased SDLT as a deduction against the capital gain arising on a subsequent disposal of the property.

An SDLT return must be submitted within 14 days after completion and the SDLT is payable within the same time frame.

Residential property acquired by companies and other 'non-natural persons'

The aim of the legislation is to prevent mitigation of SDLT by buying residential property through a company. A rate of 17% applies to residential property acquired by companies, partnerships where any member is a company, or for the purpose of a collective investment scheme, where the property value exceeds £500,000.

No account is taken of the mixed nature of other property acquired, or the deeming of a single contract for purchase of six or more dwellings to be non-residential property (see below).

This enhanced SDLT rate will only apply to residential property bought in a company name for self-use (or that of a family member) where the property value exceeds £500,000.

As explained in the ATED section below, there are exemptions from ATED, which also extend to the flat 17% SDLT rate and must be claimed on the SDLT return filed by the purchaser.

Relief from the 17% charge will be clawed back or withdrawn, if the use giving rise to the relief does not continue to apply in the three years following the date of acquisition.

Where one of the ATED exemptions applies, the usual progressive basis of SDLT is used to calculate the tax due, rather than the flat 17% rate.

Acquisition of 6 or more dwellings in a single transaction

A deeming rule applies to the transfer of six or more dwellings in a single transaction which treats them collectively as non-residential for SDLT purposes and the lower non-residential rates will be applicable on the total whole consideration to be paid.

The non-residential rates are as follows:

- On the purchase price between £0 and £150,000: 0%
- On the purchase price between £150,000 and £250,000: 2%
- On the purchase price in excess of £250,000: 5%

The 2% non-resident SDLT surcharge will not apply to transactions deemed as non-residential transactions as it only applies to residential property.

Annual Tax on Enveloped Dwellings (ATED)

ATED applies to UK residential property wholly or partly owned by non-natural persons (i.e. companies but not trusts) valued in excess of £500,000.

Properties must be revalued every five years. The last set of valuations required for all existing properties which were owned at 1 April 2017 was 1 April 2022. For reference, the period from 1 April 2025 to 31 March 2026 is due for filing by 30 April 2025. For properties purchased after 1 April 2022, the revaluation date is 5 years from the purchase date.

Companies liable to ATED charges are required to self-assess the charge due by filing an annual ATED return.

The starting point is that all residential properties owned by non-natural persons are caught under the ATED rules.

However, exemptions from the charge are available by reference to use of the property, when the property is:

1. let to a third party on a commercial basis and not, at any time, occupied by anyone connected with the owner;
2. open to the public for at least 28 days a year;
3. being developed for resale by a property developer;
4. owned by a property trader as the stock of the business for future resale;
5. repossessed by a financial institution as a result of its business of lending money;
6. being used by a trading business to provide living accommodation to certain qualifying employees;
7. a farmhouse occupied by a farm worker or a former long-serving farm worker;
8. owned by a registered provider of social housing.

Except for the relief for being open to the public, no reliefs are available if the property is occupied by a connected party, such as a family member, even if market rent is paid for their use or occupation.

Please note that it is necessary to file the annual ATED relief tax return in order to claim an exemption, as they do not apply automatically.

The due date for filing ATED returns and paying the charge is 30 April annually. ATED Returns and payments are made in advance. There are penalties for late filing and non-compliance.

If you buy a property during the year which is subject to ATED you are required to file the return and make payment (or claim the exemption) within 30 days of acquiring the property.

The deadline is extended to 90 days in respect of newly built property and it is then within 90 days of the earliest of the date of first occupation and the date that the property is registered for Council Tax.

The annual chargeable amounts are as below:

Taxable value of the interest in the property on the relevant day	Annual chargeable amount (2026/27)	Annual chargeable amount (2025/26)
£500,000 - £1 million	£4,600	£4,450
£1 million - £2 million	£9,450	£9,150
£2 million - £5 million	£32,200	£31,050
£5 million - £10 million	£75,450	£72,700
£10 million - £20 million	£151,450	£145,950
More than £20 million	£303,450	£292,350

Tax on rental profits

Scope of charge

Income Tax is charged upon UK rental profits arising for individuals and trustees irrespective of their residence and domicile status.

Companies (both resident and non-UK resident alike) are liable to UK corporation tax on their rental profits.

Tax is charged on rental income after deduction of relevant tax-allowable expenses (see later).

In addition, those persons who are involved in dealing or developing UK land are liable to income tax or corporation tax on their profits, irrespective of the provisions of certain double tax treaties and whether they have a permanent establishment in the UK or not.

Personal allowances

All British citizens (irrespective of tax residency status) are entitled to a UK personal allowance, which is the amount of tax-free income that each individual is entitled to receive.

The UK personal allowance is £12,570.

In addition, the following individuals are also entitled to claim UK personal allowances (a non-exhaustive list):

- EEA Nationals
- Individuals who are resident and nationals of Thailand and Malaysia

Residents and nationals of the following countries will only qualify for UK personal allowances to the extent that they also hold full British (or other EEA) citizenship:

- China
- Hong Kong
- Singapore
- Dubai (and other UAE Citizens)
- Saudi Arabia
- USA

Residents in other countries will need to have regard to the bilateral tax agreement between the UK and their country of residence.

However, personal allowances are reduced by £1 for every £2 of income earned in excess of £100,000, so anyone earning rental profits in excess of £125,140 cannot benefit from a personal allowance irrespective of their residency status. Only UK taxable income is taken into account.

Trusts and companies do not benefit from a UK personal allowance.

Rates of tax

The rates of tax on net rental profits for 2025/26 and 2026/27 are as follows:

Individual	Basic rate	£0 – £37,700	20%
	Higher rate	£37,701– £125,140	40%
	Additional rate	Over £125,140	45%
Trust	Discretionary trusts are subject to the additional rate (45%) on their net rental profits. Interest in possession trusts are subject to the basic rate (20%) on their net rental profits.
Company	UK resident companies with profits under £50,000 pay UK corporation tax at a rate of 19%. UK resident companies with profits greater than £250,000 pay the increased CT rate of 25% with marginal rates between 19-25% where the profits are between £50,000-250,000. All non-UK resident companies pay corporation tax at 25% (subject to their country's double tax treaty with the UK which may allow for the lower rates to apply as they do for UK resident companies).

From 6 April 2027, a new tax rate will be introduced for property income. This is an additional 2% added to the rates above.

From that date, the rates of tax will be as follows.

Individual	Basic rate	£0 – £37,700	22%
	Higher rate	£37,701– £125,140	42%
	Additional rate	Over £125,140	47%

Reporting

Individuals

Individuals must report their income, expenses and net rental profits on Self-Assessment Tax Returns that are due for submission to HM Revenue & Customs by 31 January following the end of UK tax year. A UK tax year runs from 6 April to the following 5 April.

Any income tax payable by non-UK resident individuals is due for payment by the tax return filing date, i.e. 31 January (if submitted online) following the end of the relevant UK tax year.

In addition, such taxpayers are usually required to make payments on account of next year's tax liability in two equal instalments in advance.

The payments are due by 31 January during the tax year and 31 July following the end of the relevant tax year. Each instalment is equal to 50% of the previous year's liability.

From 6 April 2026 a new regime for reporting digitally property income and expenditure to HMRC is to be introduced ("Making tax digital – MTD"). The regime only applies to non-UK residents letting property in the UK who have been issued with a National Insurance number – typically either those born here or who have worked here previously.

Under MTD, taxpayers with gross income of over £50,000 will need to report property income and expenditure on a quarterly basis to HMRC (as well as the annual tax return). The entry threshold of £50,000 is to reduce to £30,000 in 2026/27 and £20,000 for 2027/28, and it is the previous tax year's gross income that is used to decide whether the threshold is met.

The MTD regime requires records to be kept digitally and the digital records must be 'bridged' to the quarterly transmission of data to HMRC with a clear audit trail. In many cases the software used to record the income and expenditure can also send the data to HMRC. If not (for example records are kept on an Excel spreadsheet) it is possible to purchase 'bridging software' that will extract the data from the spreadsheet and send it to HMRC.

Companies

Companies report their profits on Corporation Tax Returns which are due for submission within 12 months from the end of the accounting period.

Corporation tax is usually payable 9 months and 1 day after the end of the accounting period after the end of the company's accounting period.

Large companies and very large companies are required to pay by instalments. For large companies with profits between £1.5 million to £20 million, payments are due in four instalments starting 6 months after the beginning of the company's accounting period; for very large companies with profits more than £20 million, in four instalments starting 2 months after the beginning of the company's accounting period.

For the first year's accounts for non-UK resident companies, the company will need to prepare accounts usually from the date of incorporation ending either on their year-end date or 5 April 2024 where there is no fixed year end date.

E.g: For a company that has a year end of 31 December 2023, the first period will therefore run from the date of incorporation to 31 December 2023. The tax payment date will be 1 October 2024 (if it falls outside the scope of large or very companies) and the filing deadline will be 31 December 2024.

In addition to filing a company tax return, non-UK resident companies need to file accounts showing a profit and loss account as well as a balance sheet together with the company's tax return in a specific format.

Working out the profit

In calculating the net profit, the expenses that can be offset against the gross rent include:

1. Costs of repairs and maintenance (expenses incurred prior to first letting to put the property into good order may be allowable);
2. Agent's fees for managing the property;
3. Service charges and other expenditure on common parts;
4. Insurance premiums;
5. Legal costs of renewing a short lease or tenancy agreements;
6. Accountancy fees for preparing accounts and tax computations;
7. A 'renewals' basis applies to rental properties. There is no deduction for the initial installation of furniture, but the costs of replacements can be claimed. This will include fixtures such as baths, washbasins and kitchen units.
8. Any unrecovered VAT on the above items.

For individuals and Trustees, tax relief on finance costs is restricted to 20% of the total finance costs incurred in the year and this is deducted from the tax due on the rental profits. Any excess finance costs are rolled forward to the next tax year.

In practical terms, these measures do not affect basic rate individual taxpayers, whose net rental profits, before deduction of interest, fall within the 20% rate band (i.e. less than £37,700 of profit as stated above), nor will it affect companies, who will be able to get 100% tax relief under Corporation Tax rules.

To illustrate this change and how it will affect the amount of tax due by a higher rate (40%) taxpayer when the measures take full effect, please refer to the example below:

This example assumes an individual with no UK personal allowance who has £45,000 of gross rental income, £5,000 of expenses and £30,000 of mortgage interest payable:

2025/26 Tax Year
Rent	£45,000
Expenses	(£5,000)
Mortgage interest	£0
Profit	£40,000
Tax @ 20%	£7,540
Tax @ 40%	£920
Tax due	£8,460
Tax credit (£30,000 x 20%)	(£6,000)
Net tax due for the year	£2,460

In 2025/26 the economic profit is £10,000, except that £30,000 is not deductible in calculating the taxable profit (a tax credit at 20% being given later in the computation) and the tax rate increases because part of the rental profits are then taxed at the higher rate of 40% rather than 20%.

As mentioned above, from 6 April 2027 the tax rates on property income are to increase by 2% on each band. From that date, the tax credit will increase to 22% in line with the basic rate for property income.

Tax on disposals

Individuals and trustees

All individuals and Trustees are required to report direct and indirect disposals of UK residential property within 60 days following completion of the sale and pay any Capital Gains Tax (CGT) due within the same time frame. A UK residential property interest includes an assignment of a contract of an off-plan residential unit. UK residents are required to report direct sales of UK residential property, unless completely exempted (for example, the disposal of a principle private residence) and pay the CGT within the same timeframe.

Each individual is entitled to an annual exemption from CGT. This is separate to the personal allowance for income tax and is not dependent on the individual's jurisdiction of nationality or residence.

The annual exemption for 2024/25 and 2025/26 is £3,000. Trustees also benefit from 50% of the individual annual exemption i.e. £1,500.

Disposals can take the form of a sale to a third person for consideration or a gift to a family member, although gifts between spouses are exempt from CGT.

A capital gain on a disposal of a UK residential property is ordinarily calculated by taking the disposal proceeds (decreased by any incidental costs incurred on the disposal, e.g. estate agents'/ solicitors' fees) and deducting from them the cost of that property on exchange (increased by such incidental cost incurred on an acquisition – the incidental costs on acquisition would also include SDLT) and any enhancement costs, such as capital improvements to the property, conversions, alterations etc.

However, there are three ways in which an individual can calculate the capital gain on a UK residential property which is directly owned by a non-UK resident person where the property was acquired before 6 April 2015.

These special rules only require that non-resident CGT is paid on the difference between the proceeds received on a disposal and the value of the property as at 5 April 2015 (known as 'rebasings'). It is also possible to elect to time-apportion any capital gain between the pre- and post-April 2015 periods, with the former exempted from tax. If it is beneficial to calculate the gain over the whole period of ownership, the gain can be calculated without rebasing or apportioning.

For disposals of indirectly held property, i.e. a disposal shares in a company that holds UK residential property, they can rebase the share value to 5 April 2019. For a gain on the disposal of an indirect holding (e.g. shares in a company or units in a collective investment vehicle) to come within the scope of CGT, certain conditions need to be met. The conditions are broadly that:

- the non-UK resident person (together with connected parties) has a 25% interest (or has done within the last two years); and
- at least 75% of gross assets is represented by all UK immovable property (i.e. not just residential properties) – (a "property rich" company.)

An asset used for the purposes of a trade, for example, a hotel building, when the company operates a hotel, can be excluded (subject to various conditions) when determining whether the company is 'property rich'.

Non resident capital gains tax may be subject to the specific provisions of the UK's Double Tax Agreements with the country where the person is resident.

Companies

Both UK resident and non-UK resident companies pay corporation tax on disposals of UK residential property. Non-UK resident companies can still rebase the value of their UK residential property assets as at 5 April 2015.

Rates of tax

Individuals

For non-UK resident individuals, tax will be applied at a rate of 18% to the extent that their overall income and gains falls within the basic rate band (of £37,700) and 24% thereafter.

If property is used as the main residence, a gain realised on a disposal of such a property (including land of up to half a hectare or such larger area as is required for reasonable enjoyment of the residence) is fully covered by Private Residence Relief (PRR) and, consequently, exempt from CGT.

It is also possible for a non-UK resident individual to claim PRR for a tax year provided that the property is occupied by them for at least 90 nights during that tax year. Time spent in other UK properties owned by the individual can be aggregated for this purpose.

If the UK property is that individual's second home, a formal election should be submitted to HM Revenue & Customs to elect for that property to be a main residence to secure this relief in the future on parts of the gain that relate to the periods of main residence occupation. However, notwithstanding this, non-UK residents can delay an election for a property to be their main residence until submission of their non-resident CGT return.

Companies

UK resident companies with profits under £50,000 pay UK corporation tax at a rate of 19%. Companies with profits greater than £250,000 pay the increased CT rate of 25%. For UK resident companies there are marginal rates between 19-25% for companies with profits between £50,000-250,000. All non-UK resident companies pay corporation tax at 25% unless they are resident in a country with a non-discrimination clause in their double tax treaty with the UK (in which case the lower rates may be available as they are for UK companies).

Properties owned prior to 31 December 2017 may benefit from indexation relief, designed to give inflationary relief based on cost.

Companies cannot claim PRR, even where the property is occupied by a director or shareholder.

Trusts

Trusts are liable at a flat rate of 24% and can benefit from half of the annual exemption available to individuals (£1,500 for 2024/25).

Reporting

Individuals

As mentioned above, both UK residents and non-UK residents disposing of a UK residential property interest will need to notify HMRC within 60 days following completion of the sale and pay the tax due within that timeframe (unless there is an exemption, such as principle private residence relief). Non-residents must also report disposals (and pay the tax) of non-commercial properties or shares deriving their value from UK property, within the same timeframe.

Non-resident CGT (NRCGT) returns must be submitted even where there is no tax payable.

Where properties are held jointly, each owner is required to submit an NRCGT return in respect of their share of the disposal.

Penalties apply for late filing and payment of the tax.

Companies

There is no 60 days filing requirement for companies, who instead report any disposals on their UK company tax return that is due 12 months after the year end on their company tax return.

Any tax due will usually be payable 9 months and 1 day after the year end, or by instalments if it is a large company or a very large company as stated above. Non-UK companies whose only UK transaction is a disposal of a property may have different payment and filing dates.

Inheritance tax (IHT)

IHT is charged in the UK upon the death of an individual in respect of assets owned at the date of their death and any gifts in the preceding 7 years. IHT is charged on both individuals and Trusts as set out below.

Individuals

The current IHT system for individuals (from 6 April 2025) is based on whether the deceased is a UK long term resident (LTR) or not. Domicile is now irrelevant.

The estate of an individual who is an LTR includes their worldwide assets. The estate of an individual who is not an LTR is subject to IHT on their UK situated assets only, such as directly held residential and commercial property, and indirectly held UK residential and, from April 2026, agricultural property assets (but not commercial property). Indirectly held property interests include shares deriving their value from UK residential assets, or loans made to fund the acquisition or enhancement of UK residential property. More details on indirectly held assets is below.

An individual will be treated as long term UK resident if they have been tax resident in the UK for 10 out of the previous 20 tax years (all reference to 'years' in this section refers to tax years). Once an LTR, they remain fully within the scope of IHT until they have been non-UK tax resident for between three and ten consecutive years ("The IHT tail"). This tail is 10 years if the individual was resident in the UK for 20 years or more and is shortened if the individual was resident in the UK for between 10-19 years, in the last 20 years as follows;

Number of tax years of residence	Tail
In last 20 tax years
<13 years	3 years
14	4
15	5
16	6
17	7
18	8
19	9
20	10

It is always years ended before the tax year of death that are considered when counting years of UK tax residency.

Indirectly held UK residential property interests include the following:

- Shares in an overseas company to the extent that the company owns UK residential property. Exemptions apply for very small shareholdings.
- A share of a partnership that owns UK residential property.
- A non-bank loan provided to finance the purchase of UK residential property or collateral provided for such a loan.
- In addition, the legislation includes an extension to the IHT charge for a period of 2 years, after a sale of shares in a company or interest in a partnership that owns a UK residential property. Any such consideration received, even if reinvested offshore, remains within the scope of IHT for the 2-year period.
- This does not apply to individuals who sell a property, nor does it apply where a company or partnership sells a UK residential property and subsequently repatriates the proceeds of sale overseas.

Chargeable events include where an individual directly owns UK residential property, as well as the following events:

- The death of an individual who owns any UK residential property interest, as defined above, at the date of their death.
- The death of an individual who has made a gift of a UK residential property interest within 7 years prior to their death.
- The transfer of a UK residential property interest to a Trust.

Residential type properties specifically excluded from the definition of 'residential properties' for IHT purposes include care or nursing homes, any buildings with 15 bedrooms or more which have been purpose-built for student accommodation and are occupied by students, as well as prisons and military accommodation.

Shares in a UK company are UK situated assets and the entire value attributable to such shares forms part of the deceased's Estate, not just that part of the value attributable to UK residential property.

IHT is currently charged at 40% on the total value of the estate, less the first £325,000 (known as the 'nil rate band' or 'NRB') which is tax-free.

Gifts between spouses are usually exempt from IHT, so on first death where all assets are left to the surviving spouse, no IHT charge would arise. In addition, the unused portion of an individual's NRB can be transferred and utilised on the death of their spouse. It cannot be transferred to any other family member or to an unmarried partner tax free.

There can be a restriction where the deceased is an LTR in the UK and makes a transfer to a non-LTR spouse. In such a case the spousal exemption is restricted to £325,000, in addition to the NRB. To benefit from unlimited spousal relief, it is possible for a non-UK LTR spouse to elect to be treated as a UK LTR spouse for IHT purposes only.

An enhanced NRB is available where one of the assets in the deceased's estate is the main residence. It is unlikely that this will benefit overseas investors as the UK residential property is unlikely to satisfy the conditions to be properly regarded as the main residence.

The value of the asset when calculating the IHT due is the equity in the property – being the market value at the date of death less any outstanding mortgage. To obtain this loan deduction for IHT purposes, the property needs to have been bought at the outset with mortgage finance or a mortgage taken out later to enhance the property or purchase other chargeable UK assets.

However, no deduction is given for any debt incurred on a property where it is incurred to acquire assets that are not chargeable to, or are relievable from, IHT. Thus, no IHT relief is normally available for a debt where a property is acquired for cash and a mortgage taken out subsequently to acquire say non-UK assets which are outside the scope of IHT.

One form of planning for any future IHT liabilities is by acquiring low-cost life insurance policies or by gifting an interest in the property to prospective beneficiaries. However, for such gifts not to fall within the charge to IHT tax in the future, the donor must survive at least 7 years and not benefit from the assets gifted.

Residential property owned by trusts

The IHT legislation on UK residential property interests also affects those individuals who have established Trusts to acquire UK residential property through non-UK structures. Under the legislation, in addition to UK residential property directly owned, Trusts will face IHT charges in respect of such UK residential property interests based on the revised definition above, so including:

- Shares in an overseas company to the extent that the company owns UK residential property
- A share of a partnership that owns UK residential property
- A loan provided to a company or individual to finance the purchase of UK residential property
- The 2-year extended period where a UK residential property interest is sold

The amount of charge is based on how much of the market value of the UK residential property interest owned by the trustees is attributable to the underlying UK residential property.

As for individuals, shares in a UK company are UK situated assets. Thus, the entire value attributable to the shares forms part of the Trust assets liable to IHT and not just that part of the value attributable to UK residential property.

An IHT charge usually arises under the following circumstances:

- On the 10-year anniversary from the creation of the Trust
- On a transfer of assets from the Trust to a beneficiary

In addition, there can be further IHT issues where the original settlor retains an interest in a Trust.

High Value Council Tax Surcharge

Council tax is a form of property taxation levied by the local authority (and not central government) to fund local amenities is typically paid by the tenant, not the landlord, and for that reason is not covered in this guide.

However, the government has announced that, from April 2028, it plans to introduce a new High Value Council Tax Surcharge (HVCTS) on owners of residential property in England worth £2 million or more.

Properties above the £2 million threshold will be placed into bands based on their property value. Charges will increase in line with CPI inflation each year from 2029-30 onwards.

HVCTS charging structure
Threshold (£m)	Rate (£)
£2.0-2.5	£2,500
£2.5-3.5	£3,500
£3.5-5.0	£5,000
£5+	£7,500

The HVCTS will be administered alongside existing Council Tax by local authorities, who will collect this revenue on behalf of central government. Valuations of existing properties will take place in 2026 with revaluations every 5 years.

Registration of overseas entities

On 15 March 2022, in response to Russia's invasion of Ukraine, the Register of Overseas Entities has come into existence under the Economic Crime (Transparency and Enforcement Act) 2022.

The new rules apply to all overseas entities who invest in UK land and property, including:

- An overseas company or partnership or other similar legal entity
- An Individual who is the beneficial owner of an overseas entity

A person will be a beneficial owner of an entity if they:

- hold more than 25% of the shares or voting rights in that entity;
- have the right to appoint or remove the majority of the directors of that entity; or
- have the right to exercise, or actually do exercise, significant influence or control over that entity.

An overseas entity needs to identify its beneficial owner(s) and register with Companies House in the UK.

Entities cannot themselves make such a notification, the notification to Companies House must be made by an appropriately authorised individual. HW Fisher can assist you in complying with this requirement.

Once registered, an overseas entity ID number will be issued, and the entity will need to submit annual statement to Companies House.

Overseas entities that already own land or property in the UK had until 31 January 2023 to register.

The rules will apply retrospectively to land or property acquired after 1 January 1999 in England and Wales and since 8 December 2014 in Scotland.

Registration requirements

To register, the entity will need to supply the following information:

- a. name;
- b. country of incorporation or formation;
- c. registered or principal office;
- d. a service address;
- e. an email address;
- f. the legal form of the entity and the law by which it is governed;
- g. any public register in which it is entered and, if applicable, its registration number in that register.

In addition, the information required in respect of the beneficial owner(s) is as follows:

- a. name, date of birth and nationality;
- b. usual residential address;
- c. a service address;
- d. the date on which the individual became a registrable beneficial owner in relation to the overseas entity;
- e. which of the definitions of a beneficial owner is met in relation to the registrable beneficial owner and a statement as to why that condition is met;
- f. whether the individual meets that condition by virtue of being a trustee;
- g. whether the individual is a designated person (within the meaning of section 9(2) of the Sanctions and Anti-Money Laundering Act 2018), where that information is publicly available.

Any foreign entity disposing of residential property from 28 February 2022 must also submit their details at the point of sale.

Failure to comply with the Act's registration obligations will constitute a criminal offence for both the entity and, importantly, each officer of that entity. The offence will be punishable by a daily fine (not exceeding £2,500), imprisonment of up to five years, or both.

4. Our service

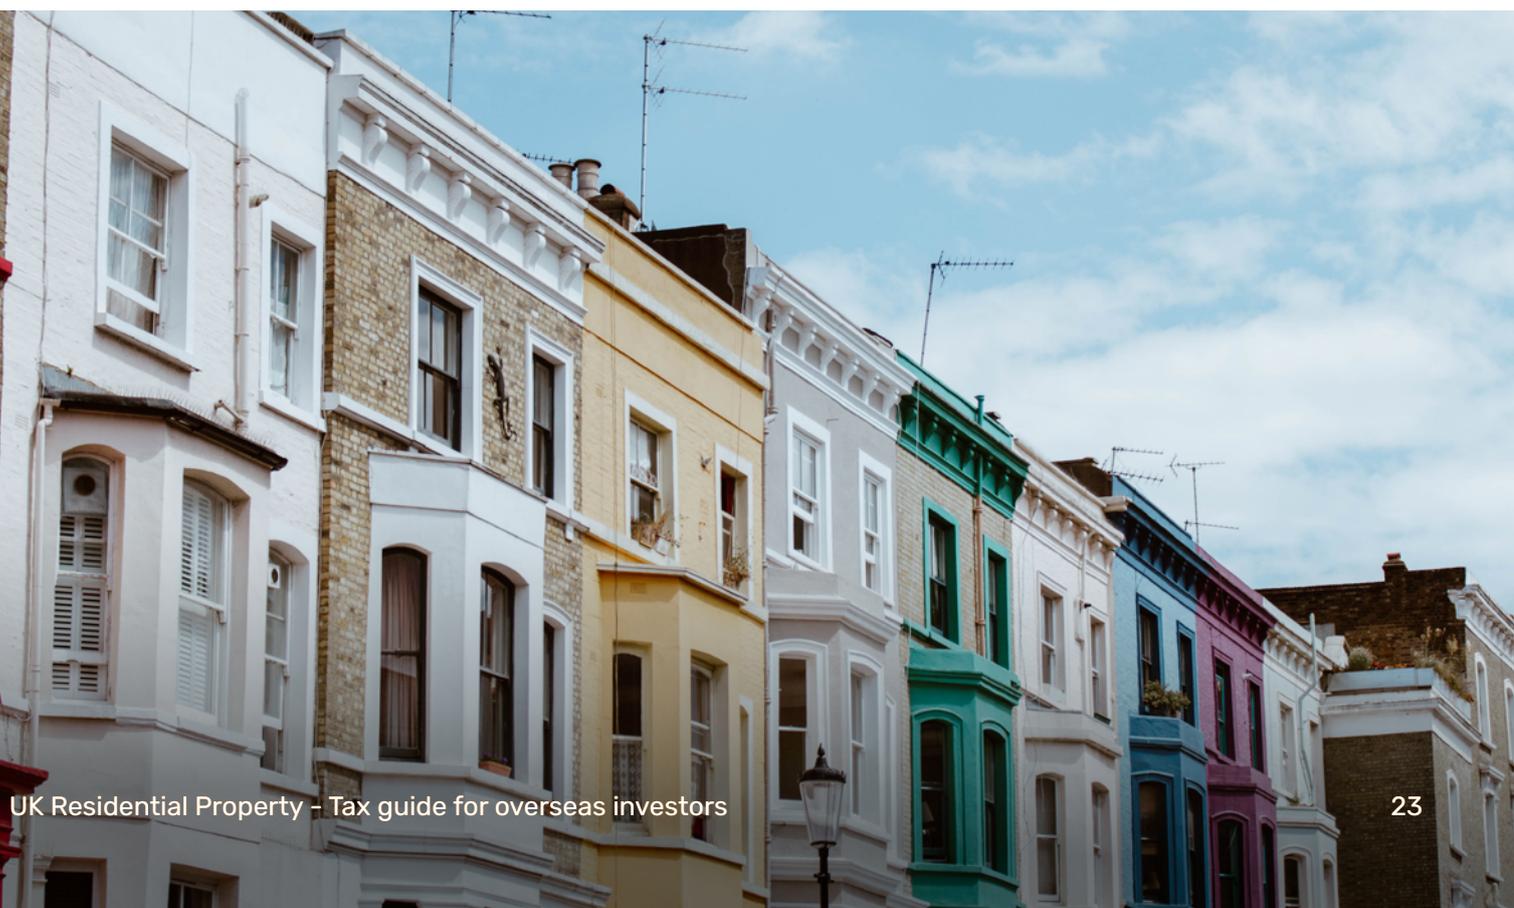

Service overview

Our service for overseas property owners is designed to manage your tax affairs with the maximum efficiency, and the minimum of red tape. Once we have the information referred to at the back of this guide, we will:

- Register you for the relevant taxes
- Obtain rental statements from your managing estate agents, calculate tax liabilities, considering all legitimate costs and expenses
- Notify you of any tax paid or to be paid and, if appropriate, whether any tax withheld can be reclaimed, arrange for personal tax allowances to be claimed where applicable
- Review copies of all existing correspondence with HMRC and liaise with HMRC on your behalf
- Appeal against incorrect tax assessments or any penalties, if applicable
- Make applications for postponement of tax payment, if appropriate
- Prepare rental accounts/company accounts and file annual tax returns on your behalf

We also provide family office services for High Net Worth clients, which provides an in-depth, holistic approach that addresses many aspects of our clients' needs in the UK. With this service we assist with our clients by liaising with their property managers to provide regular financial reporting, whilst also supporting to their day-to-day administration and management of their family affairs and long-term strategy.

We are also on hand to update you on any relevant changes to the UK tax legislation affecting your investment.

Cost of service

The annual charge for our services for individuals and Trustees not caught by MTD is as follows:

- Production of property rental accounts (per property) £625
- Preparation of tax return £300

The annual charge for our services for individuals and Trustees caught by MTD is as follows:

- Production of each quarterly rental statement (per quarter) £200
- Filing annual declaration £250

The annual charge for our services for companies is as follows:

- Production of company accounts (including balance sheet) for one property £1,100
- Preparation of corporation tax return £450

There is an additional charge of £500 for each additional property in the company.

- Monthly/quarterly bookkeeping services £Bespoke

Cost of registration of overseas entities

The charge for our services to register overseas entities are as follows:

- Registration of overseas entity (standard structure) £1750
- Registration of overseas entity (trust or PEP) £2250

These rates may be reviewed from time to time as appropriate, and different terms could apply in the case of offshore company owners and larger or multiple investments. But in any case, basic costs will always be discussed and agreed in advance. Should you wish, you can instruct your managing agent to pay our fees out of rental income collected by them.

If the tax authorities raise further issues when examining your property investment, we will report to you in the first instance and advise you of the cost of any additional professional time necessarily incurred on your behalf. Similarly, if you require additional advisory services - perhaps relating to the ownership of an investment or its financing - it may be necessary to charge an additional fee.

The above fees are subject to 3% compliance surcharge. No VAT will be charged on our fees for non-UK resident clients. Fees quoted exclude disbursements.
